

the Cyclopeans

(the Saurians)

The Cyclopean hind-brain-network, unencumbered by the problems of keeping their Saurian bodies alive (as the head-brains were taking care of this), managed to develop an amazingly advanced psychically-civilization and amass a great history and science of the universe.

This information was stored in a tele-kinetically created, vast Crystal Library. This Crystal Library hovered over the sea, somewhere off the coast of the Yucatan Peninsula, in the Bermuda Triangle.

the Simians

The Sirians are an aquatic race who have seeded our Earth with their own primitive relatives (dolphins and whales). They also conducted genetic modification of the evolved relatives of the Simians, creating the Sirian-Simian hybrids we are today. Proof of our half aquatic nature can be found in our many traits which are anomalous to land mammals but common to sea mammals, including:

- loss of body hair
- layer of fat on entire body
- breath control
- salty sweat and tears
- bipedalism (seen in monkeys when wading)

the Sirians

Towards the end of the dinosaurs' reign, the Simians visited our planet, and seeded it with some of their primitive, non-sentient, lemur-like relatives. These were the first earthly primates.

The Sirians have offered us the gift of their genetic influence in order to provide us with language, a sense of species history, and a bit of the creative potential which pervades Sirian consciousness.

But they have also provided us a far greater gift! The Sirians have fashioned, in the zone of potential left by the destruction of the Crystal Library, a paradise of 33 realms. In this zone, we will realize our creative potential and learn to create our own utopian realities!

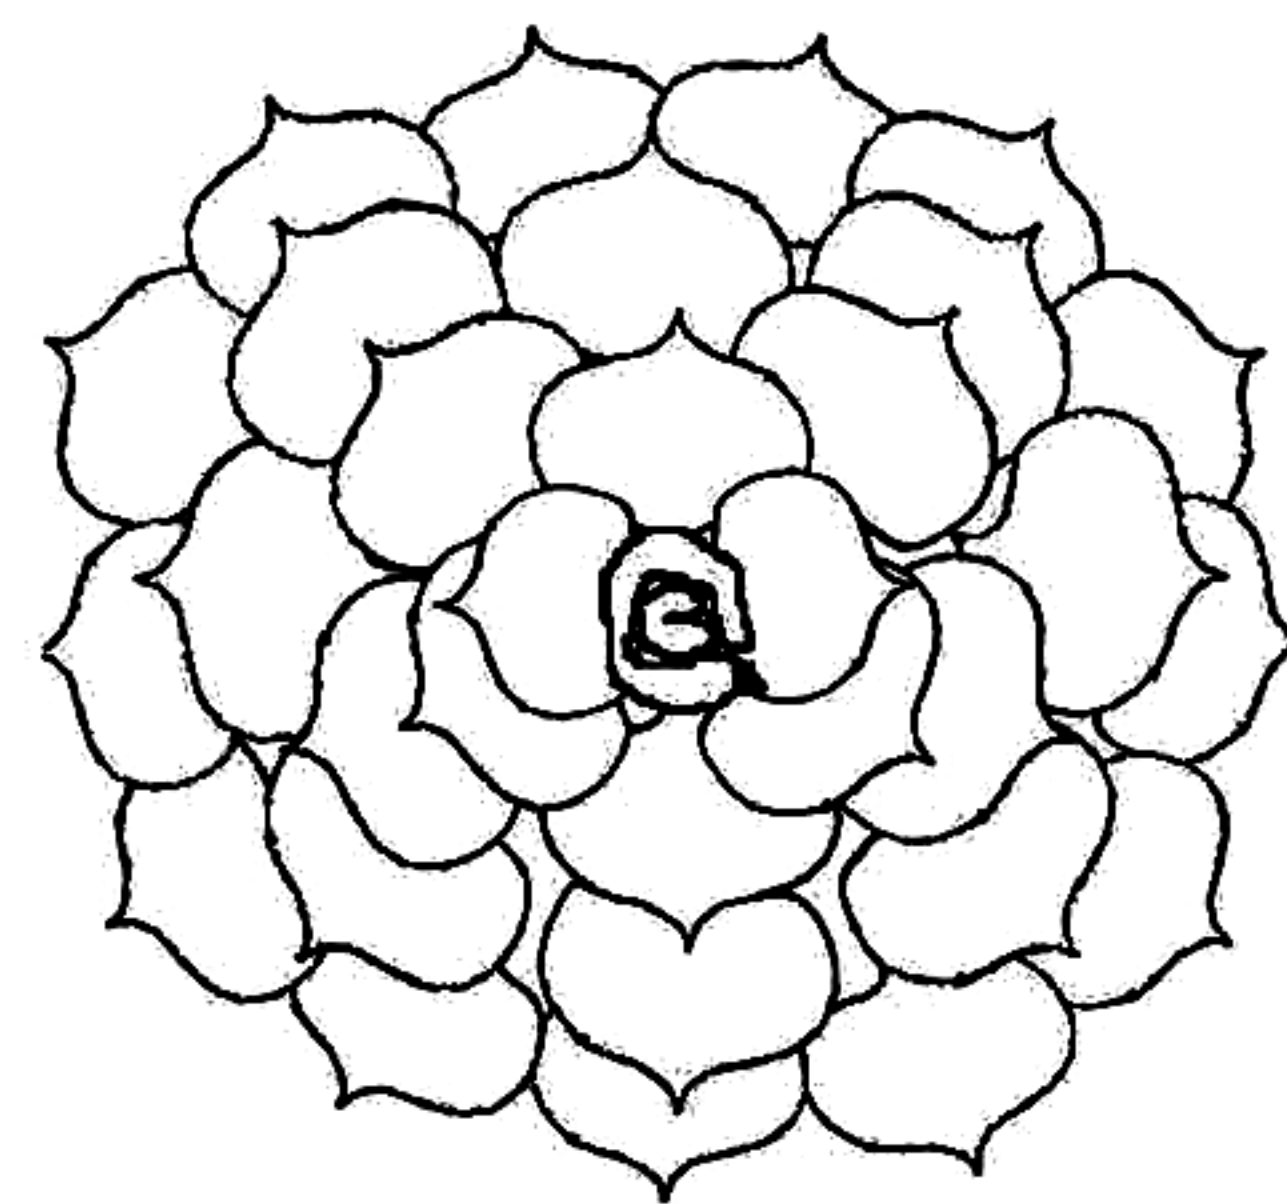

Conventional evolutionary anthropology tells us that we are descended from the primates. This is another half-truth. The rest of the story lies in an idea called Aquatic Ape Theory and an aquatic alien race called the Sirians.

The Simians' seeding of the Earth was not an innocuous action. They are a race that believes that civilizations should live in the moment, without history. In order to ensure that their relatives on Earth would not be influenced by history, the Simians caused the impact of the great meteor which destroyed the Cyclopean Crystal Library.

Impacted Humanity

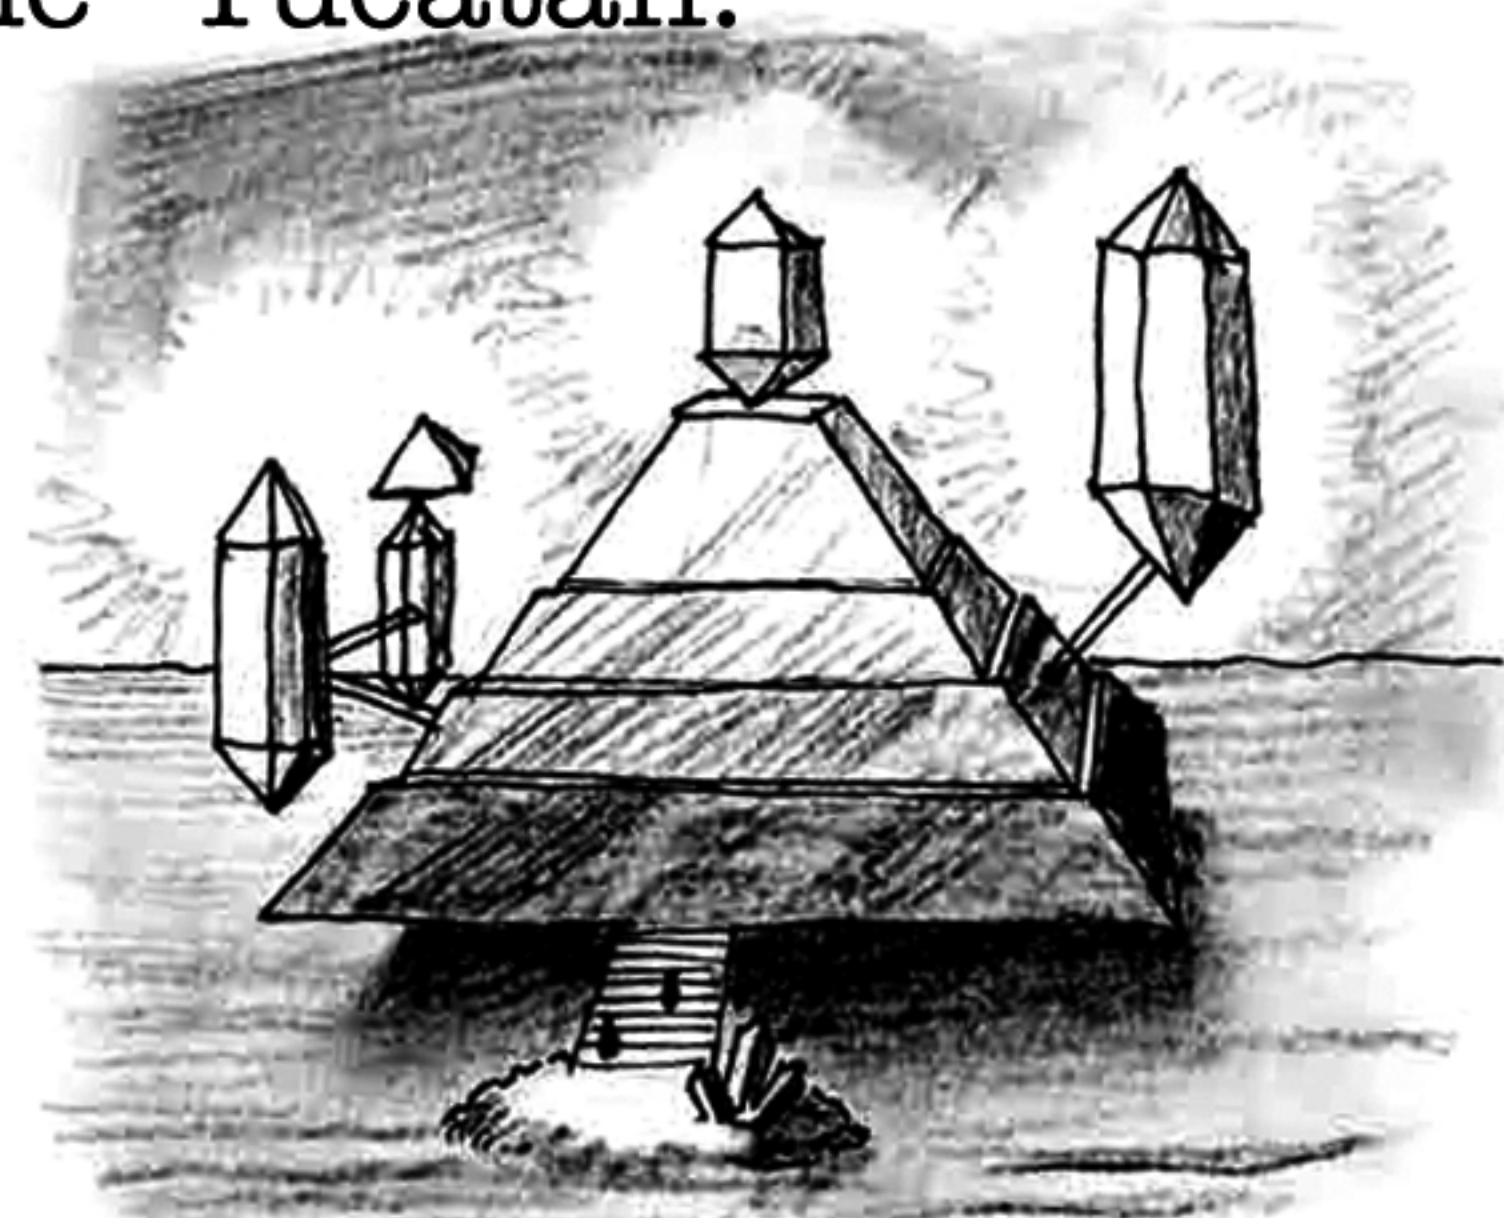

Cyclopeans (Saurians) • Simians • Sirians

The Cyclopeans evolved from the larger herbivorous dinosaurs. They developed hind-brains in order to help relay messages from the head-brain to the tail.

These hind-brains grew to be quite intelligent, and eventually psychic. The hind-brains became telepathically linked, and projected themselves as one, two, and three-eyed Cyclopean consciousness beings.

Where is the Crystal Library now? It is theorized by human science that the dinosaurs were killed off by a meteor striking the Yucatan.

This is only partially true. The meteor that struck the Yucatan killed off the single-brained, carnivorous dinosaurs, while the Cyclopeans telekinetically escaped. The meteor also shattered the Crystal Library, creating a zone of potentiality.
